Ban on new sewer hook-ups proposed

Board extends development hold

By Lynne Locke

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors Monday night continued the tricommunity development hold for an additional 30 days and extended the moratorium to all unincorporated areas in the West End.

The 30-day period will allow the planning staff to work out an on-going growth management plan with the West End cities of Upland, Montclair, Chino, Ontario and Fontana.

Many considered the supervisors' move to have been over-shadowed by news that Chino Basin Municipal Water District may be ordered not to allow further sewer hook-ups to Regional Plant 2, which serves the Chino areas and is expected to start serving Montclair this spring.

The Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board will hold a March 30 meeting to consider a cease and desist order because the plant is over capacity and is in violation of sewage treatment regulations, according to Jim Anderson representing the water quality control board.

A similar action threatens plant Regional Plant 1, which serves Upland, Ontario, and the tricommunity. Anderson called Plant 1 "marginally" compliant and noted it is barely managing to treat wastes properly.

The supervisors heard more than five hours of testimony Monday ranging from builders who said a moratorium would cause unemployment and bankruptcy to residents and officials who cited over-loaded schools and sewage treatment plants as reasons for adopting a stringent growth policy.

The supervisors' action was itself a compromise between the staff recommendation and the Planning Commission recommendation.

The Planning Commission had favored continuing the moratorium only in the tricommunity and had opposed limiting building and grading permits.

Planning staff had recommended that issuance of building and grading permits also be halted during the moratorium period and had recommended that the moratorium extend for 90 days to allow time to work out a good growth management plan.

Deputy Planning Director Pat Nemeth urged supervisors to handle the sewer-growth crisis at the local level by formulating a "growth management not a growth control" plan.

"Let's collectively regulate ourselves to avoid the long-range havoc a state shut-down would involve," she said noting that supervisors face "hard realities, hard facts and hard decisions," which would have "an irreversible effect... on the future of the West Valley."

Jim Smirl, representing the local chapter of the Building Industry Association, opposed extending the moratorium to the remainder of the West End unincorporated territory and opposed limiting issuance of building permits.

Both moves would "cause irreparable harm" to the economic conditions in San Bernardino County, he said, estimating the result would be loss of 9,600 worker hours per year during the restraint and put 20 per cent of the people in the building trades on unemployment.

In money terms, he said, the local economy would lose $456 million annually with an additional $258 million lost when effects are felt statewide.

Mayor Harold Hayes of Montclair said the growth and sewer concerns should have been raised "a couple of years ago," and commented on the need to solve the problem locally without state intervention.

Hayes expressed concern that growth formulas not penalize "those of us who have shown some self-control." Montclair had set a moratorium several years ago to work out problems in the unincorporated area south of the city.

He confessed to "mixed emotions" noting the reality of the sewage problems but not wanting to lose "the growth we're entitled to."

Hayes previously has laid the problems of constructing new sewage treatment facilities to smog produced in Los Angeles County, noting that the state and federal government will not award loans for "growth-producing projects" to areas with heavy air pollution.

Los Angeles County people produce the smog, but San Bernardino County people suffer the consequences, he has said.

Mayor George Gibson of Upland noted that Upland city officials will be willing to work with the county to formulate a fair growth plan and noted the Upland City Council has already called a moratorium in order to allow the city time to work out a growth plan.

"Our cities will be here a long time. There's no reason they have to be developed in the next six months," he concluded.

Bag pipers: unusual twist to pep rallies

By Lynne Locke

Upland High School pep rallies have an unusual twist, provided by two pipers complete with bagpipes and kilts in the school colors: MacDonald of the Isle plaid.

As the two march and play, their kilts swing in time to the lilt and the wail of jigs, marches, and reels performed on bagpipes, which were once banned as instruments of war and rebellion.

Sophomore Max van Balgooy began studying the bagpipes after discovering Upland High School's pipes sitting unused. He taught himself to play from books published by the college of piping and then convinced his friend David Brodie that anyone with the Scot name Brodie should learn piping.

Since then the two have attended college of piping summer camp, recruited three new pipers and a drummer, and participated in piping competition as well as providing some spirited music for half-time shows and pep rallies.

Bagpipes are particularly fun to play because they are different, the two said and noted piping is also good for a conversation. But so are the kilts they wear, noted Max who said they get lots of kidding about wearing "skirts."

Bagpipes are ancient instruments which were brought to England by the Romans, according to Max who noted that piping died out everywhere but in the isolated Scottish highlands.

Highlanders formed colleges of piping, and each clan had its hereditary piper until bagpipes — and kilts — were banned by the English as instruments of war and rebellion.

Max said shepherds continued to use the ippees to calm their sheep and the custom eventually revived. Piping is a common feature of annual highland festivals held regularly throughout Scotland and the United States.

Learning to pipe presents some unusual problems. Even the blowing itself is a problem since the beginning piper's throat dries out and his lips wear out, Max said and noted the only solution is to keep playing.

Grade notes — which add the swing to piping — are also difficult to learn with most new pipers playing the grace notes too long or too short or in the wrong place, Max said.

New pipers must also learn to perform as a group since piping is done while marching, he said and noted the Uplanders hope to form a large enough group for competition and performances.

Both Max and David have attended college of pipers summer camp where they studied with Shamus MacNeill, dean of the Glasgow College of Piping.

Summer camp is two solid weeks of piping with students — mostly middle aged doctors with a few teenagers — taking private and small group lessons, and then playing for hours to learn the next day's music.

The pipe itself includes a chanter with holes for changing the notes, three pipes which provide constant background notes, and a cowhide bag held under the piper's arm and squeezed to provide air for the music.

Pipers use a practice chanter to learn fingering for a new tune and must practice 1-1½ hours each day, just like any other musician, Max said noting that all music must be memorized.

A good piper has enough stamina to be able to play three hours non-stop, and bagpipe enthusiasts will listen as long as someone keeps playing, Max and David said.

Although Max already has his own pipes, David is looking forward to a summer trip to Scotland when he will pick out his pipes. Another highlight of the trip will be attending the Edinburgh Military Tattoo.

Cindy Carnes presently plays a double snare drum to set the beat for the two pipers. They hope to increase the pipe band next year to include several pipers and at least two drums.

Don Hockett, Chris Taylor and Cameron Corp are all studying piping under Max in hopes of joining the band.

And Max notes, everyone involved is a sophomore or freshman so Upland High School will have "bagpipers for some time to come."

Army unit to support exercises

The Army's 426th Civil Affairs Company, headquartered in Upland, was recently selected to support field and command post exercises of the 4th Mechanized Infantry Division at Fort Carson, Colo.

The support, called "direct association," is a new concept which places Army reserve units working directly with active army units they might support in time of war. It provides reservists training using active Army facilities, while the active forces gain the benefit of the special skills of the reserve units.

The 426th specializes in military relations with the civilian population, with the missions of using civilian facilities to aid in completion of military tasks. The unit, composed of specialists, can work with displaced persons to remove them from the route of an advance, handle relief supplies in disasters or provide staff support to an active Army unit.

Current plans call for the reservists to deploy to Fort Carson in two groups to support exercises being held in May and September.

Unit Commander Maj. Gerald J. Pierce, Apple Valley, stated, "The opportunity for our men to work side-by-side with the active component will make our readiness higher and give real meaning to our weekend training."

Members of the unit live in Upland, Claremont, Montclair, Pomona and Riverside.

Most of the electricity we generate is needed by factories, farms and offices—so people can make a living. The greatest demand for this electricity is during the day. You need electricity to run appliances in your home, too. And the greatest demand for this electricity is also during the day.

Here's the problem: Because of the growing demand for electricity during the day, we'll have to build more power plants. And building power plants today is more expensive. That drives up the cost of electricity to everybody.

Now there's something we all can do to help: Spread the use of electricity more evenly around the clock. Edison is working with large industrial customers to help them find ways to shift some of their electric use to the evening hours. But most people prefer to work during the day, so there's only so much industry can do without drastic rescheduling of work shifts.

It's afternoon use of electricity that's the biggest problem. So you can help by doing some of your daily routine at night or in the morning. Perhaps you can wash and dry your clothes at night. Use your dishwasher at night. Iron in the evening. Bake in the morning.

It means changing your routine a bit. But if we do use electricity wisely, it will help to hold down the cost in the future.

Supervisors delay grant for doctors' clinic

By PETER WONG

County supervisors delayed acceptance Monday of a half-million-dollar grant for a clinic to attract more family doctors.

The grant for the clinic, intended to alleviate the county's shortage of family doctors, will be discussed again March 28. The supervisors could not agree Monday on the location and financing of the clinic.

The board must decide by early April whether the county will accept the grant of $499,967 from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton, N.J., associated with Johnson and Johnson, the medical supply manufacturer.

The grant will support up to five family doctors and other employees at the clinic over four years. In return, the county must find a site for the clinic and decide whether to lease or build space.

Dr. J. Philip Loge, director of the county medical center, urged the supervisors to vote $345,373 for construction of a clinic building on county-owned property across the street from the medical center in San Bernardino.

Job Corps offers training

Local youths between the ages of 16 1/2 and 21 1/2 interested in learning a trade and finishing their high school education, may apply for enrollment in the Job Corps Program at 100 W. Fourth St., Ontario.

But Supervisor Joseph Kamansky of Upland, citing the arguments of the San Bernardino County Medical Society, said the clinic should be located elsewhere.

Although the county medical society is on record in support of the grant because of the need for additional family doctors, it fears that the clinic's proposed location can only encourage county medical center competition with private hospitals and doctors.

(The clinic's doctors could place patients who pay their own medical bills in the county medical center, along with patients covered by Medi-Cal and Medicare.)

Kamansky, taking note of the potential competition between the county hospital and private doctors, called for greater public-private cooperation "on a lot of the issues that keep coming up here."

The doctors in private practice, Kamansky argued, "don't feel the cooperation between the county and the medical society is, in its entirety, quite as it should be."

This was the second time in less than a month that Kamansky has argued on behalf of doctors in private practice.

On Feb. 28, Kamansky questioned a proposal which would increase the pay of county hospital doctors by allowing them to work extra hours treating private patients. The proposal will be discussed again March 28.

The site near the county medical center has the support of the center's advisory board, composed of an equal number of private doctors and public members appointed by the supervisors. The board felt the clinic would need the supporting services of the medical center in the first few years.

Dr. Jerome Taurek, a San Bernardino doctor and a member of the county medical society's board of directors, argued that too many doctors are located within a two-mile radius of the county medical center, "and this (clinic location) would only compound the problem of maldistribution of physicians."

Speaking only for himself, he said, he felt the half-million-dollar grant isn't needed to attract new family doctors to San Bernardino County.

"It's immoral for taxpayers to subsidize private physicians (in the form of a clinic building) in the area of least need," he said.

If the clinic is established, it should be "in an area of need" such as Chino, Fontana or the desert, Taurek argued.

Dr. Merlin Hendrickson of Rialto called for another study of suitable locations — preferably away from the county medical center — before a clinic is built or leased.

Of the grant, he said, "If this one goes, there'll be something else," an assertion disputed by Supervisor Dennis Hansberger of Yucaipa.

Hansberger noted that the grant application had been submitted in September, 1975, and that while the clinic may not be the ultimate answer in attracting more family doctors to the county, "maybe we should try something (like this)."

NEW CHILDREN'S CENTER — Father and son walk together to the new Chaffey College Children's Center. Spring quarter registration at the center, for 2-8 year-old children of Chaffey students will be held March 25-31. A parent orientation session will be held 8 p.m. March 31. Orientation for children new to the program will be by appointment 9 a.m. - noon April 1. For more information call the center, 987-1737, ext. 411.

UC Davis consultant favors classrooms with involvement

Dr. Maryann Gatheral, Consultant from the University of California, Davis, spoke to teachers at Vernon Junior High School recently on individualized learning.

Dr. Gatheral said she is not a big advocate of placing kids in small groups but instead favors having kids in programs where everyone in the classroom is involved in the learning process.

She said that ideally about 80 per cent of classroom time should be spent teaching, with the remaining 20 per cent left for testing. According to Gatheral, too much time is being spent in junior high schools testing students. She defined testing as "anything you do to find out what a child knows."

Asking questions is a test. So is watching, listening, and talking. Her definition of teaching is "anything you do to make kids aware of something new."

She said the entire focus of learning should be shifted from teacher to student. Teachers can do this by making students aware that they are there to help students learn but the primary responsibility for learning belongs to the student.

She stressed that teachers need to say to students "I am helping you learn, but it is your responsibility to be with me all the time."

Her recommendation is that teachers go back to the slate board to allow for more classroom involvement by students. She said one big problem teachers have is they sometimes pay more attention to the aggressive child than the quiet youngster, which means that the aggressive child is getting a better education because he is being watched and analyzed, thus his needs are being met by teachers. Using the slate board, everyone gets equal attention she said, because each person is participating in learning.

According to Gatheral, tests should only be used to find out what the child knows and that information used to modify the program to fit the student. The big problem with testing is we find out a lot about students but we don't do anything with that information, she stated.

In order to individualize instructions, teachers need to monitor students constantly to make sure they are learning what is being taught. This means that teachers are always making judgments, but they must also be constantly willing to change those judgments because teachers will be wrong a lot. Good teachers who are sensitive to kids will be very flexible in making judgments, according to Gatheral.

Gatheral talked a great deal about what she termed "fate control." She defined this as "your belief in how much control you have over things." She emphasized this has nothing to do with the truth, however. Generals in the Army have high fate control she said, because they believe what they do will make a difference in what happens. Relating this to the classroom, Gatheral said it is very difficult to teach children with low fate control. Her reasons stem from the fact that learning can only take place when a person shifts the responsibility from others to himself.

Intelligence has nothing to do with fate control. Money appears to be the only correlation, she said, as poor people appear to have low fate control. They strongly believe what they do will not make much difference.

Spring toy drive is under way

The annual spring toy drive for Santa Claus, Inc., in the Ontario-Montclair School District is now under way. Children are asked to bring used toys to be placed in the collection boxes at each school.

Especially needed are sewing materials, dolls, wagons, tricycles, cars, books, games, skates and miscellaneous toys.

Wheels and toy parts are especially useful. Volunteers will repair and refurbish all toys received for distribution to needy families at Christmas.

The toy drive began Feb. 28. Toys were collected at Bon View, Cypress, Euclid, Mission and Sultana schools that week.

This week to March 11, students of Arroyo, Central, Corona, Del Norte, Mariposa and Vineyard will be asked to share their toys.

Collection boxes will be at Berlyn, Edison, Elderberry, Euclid, Hawthorne and Kingsley during the week of March 14.

The week of March 21-25, will conclude the toy drive with boxes at El Camino, Lehigh, Margarita, Moreno, Monte Vista and Ramona.

Upland's Planning Commission

By John Shoemaker
Community Relations Coordinator
City of Upland

QUESTION: Can you tell me what the Planning Commission is?

ANSWER: Upland's Planning Commission is a body of seven persons which advises the city council on planning matters. The members are appointed by the mayor with the approval of the City Council. Not more than two members may be officials of the city. All members of the Planning Commission are appointed in accordance with the provisions of the Deering's General Laws of the state of California. All members of the present Planning Commission, with the exception of the city manager and the city attorney, continue in office as planning commissioners during their respective unexpired terms of office. The city attorney and the city manager or their authorized deputies attend all meetings of the Planning Commission in advisory capacity if directed by the council.

Commissioners are: Albert Canestro, chairman; Jerry Morris, vice chairman; Frank Carpenter, Donald Brownell, Elmer Glenn, John Zinda and John Meyer.

QUESTION: I understand that certain changes were brought about on employment applications and that there are now unacceptable pre-employment questions. Can you tell me what they are?

ANSWER: First I would like to say that the City of Upland follows a policy of equal employment opportunity. The city does not allow discrimination in employment because of a person's race, color, creed, religion, sex, national origin or age. Discriminatory employment practices are specifically prohibited by the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Any person who believes he or she has been discriminated against, may contact the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Washington, D.C.

There are unacceptable pre-employment inquiries that cannot be asked on application forms. However, with the right terminology on the subject matter, they can be made acceptable. Due to the considerable amount of information pertaining to your question, I cannot answer completely in this column. You will receive the additional information by mail.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the duties of a police investigator?

ANSWER: Upland's Bureau has five, very capable, rugged police investigators: William Gettings, Steve Malone, Rudy Mora, Bill Culberth and Ron Sommerhouse.

Under general supervision they investigate the circumstances of a crime and question witnesses; examine crime scenes to obtain clues and gather evidence; check alibis of suspects and attempt to determine the validity of statements made; analyze clues and information related to a crime in determining how it was committed; review modus operandi of known criminals in attempting to determine relationships between criminals and crimes under investigation; arrest or assist in the arrest of criminals or suspects; report on the progress of investigations and prepare assigned cases for court; investigate known or suspected criminals to detect planned criminal activity; frequent haunts of criminals and familiarize themselves with criminals to determine their habits, associates, characteristics, and other personal information; report any occurrence or information regarding planned or committed crimes; and may be assigned to conduct background checks of applicants for city employment.

Chiropractic Recommended For Arthritis

By Dr. W.P. Helzer, D.C.

Arthritis, along with neuritis and sinusitis, seems to become more unendurable at this time of the year. There are two reasons why the suffering seems more serious.

Unquestionably the weather has its effect, and the spring season often means rain and damp climatic conditions.

This affects circulation and causes tension in muscles. Tension in muscles which span sore joints understandably increases the soreness.

Additionally, the balmy, sunny spring weather, with its flowers and gaiety, depresses persons afflicted with arthritis. They are more aware of their condition, because of their inability to enjoy the splendor of spring.

I urge an examination for all persons suffering from arthritis. Arthritis means inflammation of the joints. With that inflammation there is a disturbance of nutrition to the joint and eventually changes in joint structure occur.

It is well to remember that circulation of blood to all parts of the body, including joints, is influenced by nerves which have origin in the spinal cord and pass through the opening between bones of the spinal column. Thus, spinal displacements can be causative factors in arthritis.

It is therefore on the basis of reason and on the basis of Chiropractic experience that modern Chiropractic care is advocated for arthritis.

PUBLIC SERVICE AWARD — San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors Chairman Robert O. Townsend (left) receives a Public Service Award from Harold Deem of the United States Department of Labor. Townsend was given the award for his work as a member of the Executive Board for the Inland Manpower Association (IMA).

Proposed bill would aid mental patients

State Assemblyman Terry Goggin (D-66) has introduced legislation supported by state public defender Paul Halvonik requiring the state public defender to represent mental patients.

The bill would also require coroners to investigate all deaths occurring in mental institutions.

The bill was prompted by findings of the state Department of Health that one out of every 10 deaths in state mental hospitals occurs under suspicious circumstances.

Goggin also noted allegations that some patient records had been falsified. "Unless all deaths are routinely investigated, abuses and even homicides can be covered up."

"Under state law, no agency is responsible for the rights of mental patients. As a result, patient representation is inadequate and haphazard," Goggin said.

"The rights involved are too fundamental to be left to chance. A person may be confined against his will and subjected to unwanted and unneeded treatment," he said.

A patient can even lose the legal right to control his or her property as a result of being institutionalized, he noted adding that vigorous legal representation "is essential in ensuring that each case is fully and fairly evaluated."

Halvonik believes his office can offer appropriate and vigorous representation for mental patients, Goggin said.

One expected benefit of the bill is a decline in the mental patient population, thereby saving substantial sums of money which can be used to upgrade facilities and staff.

Goggin argued that "effective advocacy will assure that the term of hospitalization is no longer than necessary and that each patient receives appropriate treatment."

"This is the key element," Lancaster said. "Once the purpose was accomplished, the tax rate would end. It cannot go on forever."

Lancaster said his bill would give local voters a better idea of whether or not they wanted to approve a tax increase because they would know exactly what the money would be used for.

"In addition, worthy projects and services will stand a better chance of being funded because voters can be assured that the tax revenue they authorized cannot be used for anything else," Lancaster added.

The bill now goes to the state Senate for a hearing by the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Assembly approves Lancaster tax bill

A bill designed to give voters more control over local government expenditures has been passed by the state Assembly.

The bill, AB 29, authored by Assemblyman Bill Lancaster (R-62), would allow a special tax rate voted on by the people to be used only for a specific purpose.

As an example, a city which wanted to build two new parks could ask the voters to approve a special property tax rate for that purpose only. If the voters approve the expenditure, revenues from the special rate could only be used for the new parks.

Once the parks had been completed, the special tax rate would terminate.

Ayala given award

The County Supervisors Association of California (CSAC) President's Award has been presented to State Senator Ruben S. Ayala (D-32).

The award, never before presented, was given to Ayala at a luncheon meeting of the association in Sacramento. The award is to honor an outstanding county government alumnus — former county supervisor or other county official — who has continued to provide distinguished county service in a post-county career.

Arthur H. Edmonds, past association president, in presenting the award said Ayala's actions as a state senator since leaving the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors have been beneficial to counties.

Death penalty — give it a chance

By State Senator
George "Duke"
Deukmejian
Senate Minority
Floor Leader

One hundred-seventy-five of California's most hardened murderers are free from the shadow of the gas chamber. All 175 are alive; none of their 203 victims are. None of the 175 have been executed. All of their 203 victims have been.

A few of the former death row inmates are already on parole — free to walk the streets.

All of the others who still remain behind prison gates are eligible for parole and will have the opportunity to gain their total freedom.

In June 1972, the United States Supreme Court held that the capital punishment law, as then enforced in California and other states, gave judges and juries "unfettered discretion" in deciding who lived or died, and ruled the laws unconstitutional. A few months prior to that decision, the California Supreme Court decided the California death penalty law was "cruel and unusual punishment" under our state constitution.

The California Supreme Court decision triggered action by the public which resulted in a statewide debate on capital punishment and approval of an initiative by a 67 per cent vote.

That decision, by nearly 5.5 million voters, mandated the return of the death penalty law. I was the official sponsor of that initiative and I carried a capital punishment law which was enacted and became effective on Jan. 1, 1974.

In June of 1976, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down a new ruling which said that capital punishment may only be imposed under a procedure which focuses upon the particular nature of the crime and the particular individual accused of the crime, almost a direct reversal of its 1972 decision.

The State Supreme Court, on Dec. 7, 1976, followed that ruling with its decision that California's latest death penalty law was unconstitutional since it did not offer the defendant the opportunity to present "mitigating circumstances."

Former Chief Justice Donald Wright, speaking for the California Supreme Court in the 1972 Anderson case (the case which abolished the death penalty), acknowledged the deterrent effect of capital punishment when he wrote, in part, "Capital punishment can have a significant deterrent effect only if punishment is swiftly and certainly exacted."

No law can be effective unless it is enforced. The death penalty is effective when it is enforced, and it would be an even greater deterrent were it not for the long delays existing in the courts today which preclude swift punishment of killers.

For a decade, beginning in 1953 and through 1963, the death penalty was strongly enforced in California. During that period the murder rate, taking into account our growth in population, remained relatively stable.

Beginning in 1964 our higher courts imposed their own moratorium upon the enforcement of the death penalty with only a single execution occurring from 1963 until today. During the period 1964-1975 the homicide rate nearly tripled, going from 3.7 to 10.4 per 100,000 population, or in raw numbers, 2,196 homicides in 1975 compared to 656 in 1963.

To meet the most recent guidelines established by the U.S. Supreme Court, I have authored SB-155, which would restore the death penalty for 16 specified types of first degree murders; provide for consideration of any and all mitigating circumstances; and require the courts to expedite trials and appeals, setting a 150-day maximum for the State Supreme Court to decide all final automatic death penalty appeals.

Californians continue to be shocked by higher court decisions which bewilder, depress and enrage them. They are confused because they believe, in a democratic form of government, that they are still the source of power in this state and their 67 per cent vote approving the restoration of the death penalty in 1972 should have served as a mandate, not only to the state legislature, but also on the courts, requiring the return of capital punishment as a part of our criminal code.

All of the recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions hold that the death penalty is constitutional. The people of California, after considering all of the arguments for and against it, by a 2 to 1 margin, said that they believe it is needed, justified and appropriate.

If you agree that we should enforce the death penalty in California, I urge you to write to your senator and assembly member now, asking them to vote for Senate Bill 155 and Assembly Bill 240, and if necessary, to vote to override Governor Jerry Brown's promised veto of any new death penalty bill.

Senate Bill 155 and Assembly Bill 240 will bring California's capital punishment law into compliance with the latest standards set by the U.S. and California supreme courts, and also require that the courts expedite the trials and appeals of capital crime cases.

A society that respects human life must do everything that it can to protect the lives of its innocent citizens.

(Deukmejian, a Republican, represents the 37th District, which includes parts of Los Angeles County.)

New 17-book series to help pastoral counseling

A 17-book series on creative pastoral care and counseling is emerging from an unusual publishing venture by the School of Theology at Claremont.

Edited by Claremont's Howard J. Clinebell Jr., and published by Fortress Press, Philadelphia, eight of the books have already appeared. Nine more are in the works.

One of the Clinebell's former students, Dr. Howard Stone of the Interfaith Counseling Center in Scottsdale, Arizona, is associate editor.

The aim of the series, the editors say, is to provide better tools for counselors, both laity and clergy, based on some of the new developments in psychotherapy.

Dr. Clinebell, nearly 20 years on Claremont's theological faculty, and world recognized authority in pastoral counseling, wrote two of the volumes in the series — "Growth Counseling for Marriage and the Early Years" and "Growth Counseling for Mid-Years Couples." He describes the books as "hope-oriented" and "growth-centered." Additional Claremont authors in the series are: — Charlotte H. Clinebell, "Counseling for Liberation"

— John B. Cobb, Jr., "Theology and Pastoral Care"

— Paul Irwin, "The Care and Counseling of Youth in the Church"

Others already published are:

— Wayne E. Oates, "Pastoral Counseling in Grief and Separation"

— E. Mansell Pattison, "Pastor and Parish: A Systems Approach"

— Howard W. Stone, "Crisis Counseling"

Several of the books have already been published in German and Dutch.

Future books will deal with ministering to the dying and their families, pastoral care of the aging, counseling in ethical dilemmas, healing and the charismatic movement, pastoral care of singles, prayer and psychosynthesis in pastoral care, ministering to the handicapped, using Gestalt

Sycamore Terrace

Church to help build retirement complex

The First Presbyterian Church of Upland has announced its plans for "Sycamore Terrace," a retirement home complex for senior citizens to be built on 11 acres in Upland on San Bernardino Road east of San Antonio Community Hospital.

The complex, which will include independent living units, health-care facilities, and a comprehensive retirement center, is a joint effort of the Southern California Presbyterian Homes and the local congregation.

The first unit to be constructed will be an independent living facility for low and moderate income elderly and/or handicapped persons. This unit will consist of 100 apartments especially designed to accommodate senior citizens, and central dining, craft and recreational areas. Twenty-four-hour security and emergency care will be provided for the occupants.

Southern California Presbyterian Homes, which operates three retirement centers, will own and manage the complex. The first phase, to be financed by a loan from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is intended to provide quality retirement living for senior citizens with low and moderate incomes.

Ian Richardson, congregational chairman for the project said, "We see this project as a great opportunity to serve Upland's senior citizens. Often the elderly must live on fixed incomes and face new challenges because of diminishing physical abilities and the trauma due to loss of the marriage partner. Our program will provide comfortable, secure living arrangements for our most deserving and often neglected citizens — the elderly."

"We are fortunate that the federal government has seen fit to provide long term loans to churches and other non-profit organizations so that these senior housing programs can be established. We have observed many of these programs which are now operating in Southern California. They have proved to be successful and popular with the elderly and long waiting lists for vacancies exist," Richardson said.

"We recognize that our church and the Southern California Presbyterian Homes must work closely with the city of Upland to insure the successful completion of the complex. Certain zoning changes must be considered because existing regulations are not normally applicable to senior citizen retirement needs," he noted.

An application to rezone the 11 acres and an application for a conditional use permit for housing of the elderly under the "rest home" provisions of the building code have been submitted and will be heard by the Upland Planning Commission March 24.

A Woman Ought to Know

Job discrimination illegal

Dear Anita,

I just finished college, and I'm entering the job market for the first time. I realize jobs are tight, but I sometimes feel I'm not interviewed or not considered because I'm a woman. How can I tell when there is discrimination?

M.T., Santa Barbara

Dear M.T.,

Even in a tight job market, women today are in a good position to compete for jobs. Federal and state laws have made discriminatory practices illegal and most firms are aware of this.

The laws regard the following actions as discriminatory, among many others:

— The job you are applying for is labeled a "man's job."

— A different application form is used for men than for women.

— You are not promoted because your employer feels that only men should be supervisors.

— You are not hired because the job is "unfit" for a woman.

— You are not given notice of promotional, job change, or training opportunities.

— Men are paid more for the same level positions.

— You are interviewed by an all-male board.

Many companies and public agencies are moving actively to comply with the law, ending discriminatory practices and actively recruiting women. Check with local government agencies or women's organizations that have job referrals for names of such employers.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

Ten years ago, a very dear friend lived well with her husband in their lovely home. Recently I found her almost penniless in a downtown hotel room. Why does poverty affect so many elderly women who once were well off?

G.S., Santa Barbara

Dear G.S.,

You have hit upon a fear that pervades many women — with good reason. Many more women than men face poverty in old age. The 7.5 million widows and single women over 65 constitute the poorest segment of our society. In 1970 half of these women lived on less than $1,888 per year.

There are many reasons. Here is one: A wife can receive only a portion of her husband's Social Security benefits if he dies. For older single women, Social Security averages about $115 a month.

336 miles hold

millions of books

The Library of Congress holds on its 336 miles of shelves some 17 million books, about eight million photographs, more than three million maps, 31 million manuscripts, and four million pieces of music.

Another reason: Women who work, especially in private industry, are far less likely than men to be covered by a pension. As a matter of fact, less than 10 per cent of all unmarried retired women workers are eligible for pensions. And the industries which hire mostly women are the industries which often have the least satisfactory pension plans.

If you depend on your husband's pension to take care of you, find out whether it continues after he dies. Most women do not realize that most retirement pension plans stop when the husband dies. This may be because the husband failed to take a reduction in his return to cover his wife.

Working women should find out whether pension plans in their firms exist and how fair they are to women. Let your company, your co-workers, and your legislators know if you face poverty at the end of your career. And explore every option you hear of to prevent this, including early investments, insurance, and individual retirement plans.

Try making Cheddar Biscuit Quiche

Baking biscuits easier than you think

You don't have to go to a restaurant to dine on fine cuisine from other countries.

You can enjoy ethnic foods and add excitement to menus in your own home. It's easier than you think!

Serve your family an elegant Cheddar Quiche from France, even if you're not a graduate of the Cordon Bleu cooking school. It's simple when you use refrigerated biscuits as a shortcut to making a great flaky crust for the creamy cheddar cheese filling.

Complement your Quiche with a loaf of piping hot Quick French Bread also made in a snap with refrigerated biscuits. Add a salad and viola! Your meal is a taste of France.

In the South, good cooks have always known that biscuits, in any shape or form, add adventure to a meal. And today's convenient and versatile refrigerated variety makes serving biscuits as easy as it is exciting.

Cheddar Biscuit Quiche
10-oz. refrigerated flaky biscuits
1 1/4 cups (5 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3/4 cup milk
1/2 cup (4 oz.) cooked, cubed ham
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Arrange in ungreased 9-inch pie or quiche pan; press over bottom and sides to form crust. In medium bowl, combine cheese and flour. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Spoon over crust. Cover edges of crust with foil. Bake 30 minutes. Remove foil and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer until filling is set. Cool 5 minutes before serving. (Refrigerate leftovers.) 5 to 6 servings.

Quick French bread
2 cans (8 oz. each) refrigerated butter milk or country style biscuits
1 egg white, slightly beaten
Sesame seed
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Separate each can of biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Stand biscuits on edge on ungreased cookie sheet; press together and shape ends to form a loaf. Brush lightly with egg white. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake 30 to 35 minutes until deep golden brown. Serve warm. 14-inch loaf.

Variations:
TIPS: For Italian Loaf, prepare Quick French Bread. Cut into 1/2-inch slices. Brush each slice generously with bottled Italian dressing. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 5 minutes; turn and bake another 5 minutes until crisp and golden.
For French Bread with Cheese Spread, prepare Quick French Bread. While loaf is baking, combine 1/2 cup dairy sour cream and 1/2 cup any flavor cheese spread. Slice bread; spread with cheese spread mixture. Serve warm. (Refrigerate leftovers.)
Apricot Kuchen

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
8-oz. can refrigerated buttermilk or country style biscuits
1/3 cup apricot jam
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
In oven, melt butter in 8-inch square pan while preheating to 450 degrees. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Coat each with melted butter; arrange in pan. Spoon one teaspoon jam on each biscuit (reserving remaining jam for topping). Bake 5 minutes. Combine egg, sour cream, sugar and vanilla; blend well. Spoon over partially baked biscuits. GOOD EATING — Wheat Germ Apple Cake is something which combines two things — nutrition and good eating. This cake combines the health-giving wheat germ with fresh fruit and ends up in a tasty dessert which will be enjoyed — and benefit — the whole family.

Wheat germ dessert is homey and hearty

There are some very popular wheat germ desserts best described as homey and hearty.

Their enormous appeal comes from the wholesome fresh ingredients and naturally good foods that go into them. Like homemade cobblers, pastries and cakes full of nutritious wheat germ and fresh fruit. Served warm and fragrant from the oven who could resist them? Not only do they look marvelously appetizing but they are just what they seem to be — delicious and unpretentious — easy to make and serve. This is the kind of dessert that pleases all ages, all tastes.

Try this fresh apple wheat germ cake the next time you're hungry for some honest to goodness homemade flavor.

It's quite similar to a cobbler with the fruit in the middle. The batter, though, is sweeter, light and cake like. A cup of wheat germ with sugar & honey is used to give the toasty flavor throughout. Most of it goes into the filling and mingles deliciously with the apples and cinnamon.

The remainder gives great texture to the cake batter. Although this is a made from scratch recipe, it goes together in a jiffy.

Cooks who frequently use wheat germ as an ingredient discover flavor combinations they find exceptionally good. Wheat germ with apples and cinnamon, wheat germ with chocolate, wheat germ with raisins and wheat germ with lemon are always big favorites with the consumer taste panel in the Kretschmer kitchens. Use either regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar & honey as all purpose dessert makers.

Wheat Germ Apple Cake

2 golden delicious apples
1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ with sugar & honey
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
3/4 cup milk
1 1/3 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Whipped cream or ice cream
Pare, quarter and core apples. Chop to get about 2 1/2 cups. Mix with 3/4 cup wheat germ, 1/2 cup sugar and cinnamon. Beat together butter with remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Beat in eggs, vanilla and milk. Sprinkle with flour, baking powder, salt and remaining 1/4 cup wheat germ. Stir to combine. Turn all but 1/2 cup batter into bottom of greased and floured 9-inch round layer cake pan. Top with apple mixture. Dot with remaining batter. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until pick inserted into center comes

Old favorites and new look

We live in a time of individuality and versatility.

The traditional decorating and entertaining codes of the fifties and sixties have given way to the creative and innovative ideas of the seventies. This attitude is as evident in food preparation as it is in housing and clothing styles.

In entertaining, for example, brunches have replaced cocktail and late evening parties and feature menus that offer exciting and distinctively new eating experiences.

Vegetable cookery, for one, has come a long way from the simple "boil in salted water direction." In Vegetable Au Parmesan broccoli and carrots take on a whole new flavor when simmered slowly in a little chicken bouillon and spiced with dry mustard and ground ginger. For still more variety and taste appeal parmesan crackers are added just before serving.

Also a Macaroni and Cheese casserole can take on new character and appeal with a few simple additions.

Vegetables Au Parmesan

1 bunch broccoli
2 cups carrots, sliced
1 cup chicken bouillon

1 tablespoon butter
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup Parmesan crackers
In a saucepan simmer broccoli and carrots in a cup of chicken bouillon until tender crisp. Add butter, dry mustard and ginger. Mix in thoroughly. Just before serving, mix in 3/4 cup Goldfish crackers. Top with remaining 1/4 cup. Makes 6 servings.

Macaroni and Cheese
1 small onion, sliced
1/3 cup green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
2 cups Cheddar cheese, shredded
1 package pizza crackers
1 tomato, sliced
Cook onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add cooked macaroni, stewed tomatoes and 1 1/2 cups Cheddar cheese. In a buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole, alternate layers of pasta mixture and goldfish, ending with goldfish. Top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese and arrange tomato slices on top. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Health Tips

Detached retina: loss of sight

The retina is a thin sheet of light-sensitive tissue that forms the inner lining for the back of the eye. In many ways the retina is comparable to the film of a camera. It receives focused images and converts them to signals that are transmitted along the optic nerve to the vision centers of the brain.
Sometimes a tear or hole develops in the retina. When this happens, there is considerable risk of retinal detachment — a serious occurrence because a detached retina cannot function.

In the presence of a retinal tear or hole, retinal detachment may develop when fluid from the interior of the eye leaks through the hole and separates or detaches the retina from the outer coats of the eye. At first, only a portion of the retina becomes separated. As more fluid accumulates, the retina may become completely detached. What happens can be compared to what occurs when water seeps through a wall and causes the wallpaper to peel away or separate.

Ideally, this threat to vision should be dealt with before the retina becomes detached. It is possible, in many cases, to seal an early break in the retina through a variety of techniques, including the use of laser photocoagulation or a deep-freezing probe.

Unfortunately, in many instances the retinal detachment takes place without the advance warning of a break in the retina. This sometimes happens to persons who have had cataract surgery. It also may follow a blow to the eye, be caused by a hemorrhage into the eye resulting from diabetes or a circulatory disorder, or be a consequence of degenerative changes in the retina.

The early symptoms of retinal tear and retinal detachment may be quite dramatic. They include flashes of light and floating spots in the field of vision of the affected eye. There is no pain. As the retina detaches further, the patient sees as through a curtain is obscuring the field of vision. Without treatment, the detachment becomes complete and eventually all vision is lost.

Improved surgical techniques provide a hopeful outlook for most patients with detached retina. Essentially, the procedure calls for removing the fluid that has collected beneath the retina and firmly sealing the torn retina.

tion, corner of Bonita Avenue and San Dimas Canyon Road, San Dimas. Funds raised will help sponsor their spring retreat at Camp Colby near Palmdale, April 15-17. Donations are $1.50 for passenger cars, and $2.50 for trucks, vans, and campers.

Joyce Burn, youth director, said, "Our U.M.Y.F. is half way to their goal of $500 to cover the weekend expenses for youth and five couples who serve as counselors. Enthusiasm is running high in anticipation of the fun and inspiration experienced at camp."

Counselors include Paul and Elaine Schubert, Joel and Dianne Branchaud, Duane and Ann Carpenter, Chet and Paula Jaensen, and Dr. and Mrs. Ed Burn.

Val Martinez and Elaine Burn, presidents of the senior and junior high UMYF groups respectively, will be leading the youth in a joint planning session Sunday. The agenda will include plans for crafts, talent show, tournaments, hikes to Strawberry Meadows, Ghost Lake, and Wolverton Point, and a chapel service with communion. The camp theme being considered is "Where to Find Help in the Bible." Discussions, crafts, and the chapel service will build on the theme.

Joan Bogle, senior high counselor, said Plans are underway for a 25 cent a dip Smorgasbord March 27 following the morning church service to also help raise funds.

Unitarian Society

The Rev. Ernest L. Howard will speak on the subject, "To Have or to Be?" 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the Unitarian Society of Pomona Valley, 9185 Monte Vista, Montclair. Church school classes for children will be held at the same time. Nursery care will be available.

Covina Adventist

Church doors will be open Saturday at the Covina Seventh-Day Adventist Church for Community Guest Day, according to Evangeline Murphy, general Sabbath School superintendent. They're open the rest of the year, she explained, but March 19 the special welcome is for non-members. Leaders are planning a special service for 9:20 a.m. that features several musical numbers, among which are Barbara Jean Beach, a violinist from Riverside and local vocalist, Marian Rill. A slide presentation, featuring a mission field in which the denomination works, will be shown by Margaret Allen, presiding superintendent. On this Guest Day all visitors will receive a gift.

Christian Science

The Bible Lesson-Sermon at all Christian Science churches Sunday will be "Matter." The theme, "Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?" is from 1 Corinthians.

In Ontario, church and Sunday school services will be at 10 a.m. at 1429 N. Euclid Ave. A Wednesday evening service will be provided at 8 p.m. Testimonies of healings through the use of Christian Science will be heard. Child care is provided at all church services.

Walnut Methodist

"The Cleansing of the Temple" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Bob Shuler 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the United Methodist Church of Walnut. The Bible study group will meet 7:30 p.m. the Tuesdays of March 22 and 29 at the church. The church will hold an Easter Week vacation Bible school 9:30-11:30 a.m. April 4-7 for children 3 years old through sixth grade.

Trinity Lutheran

A congregational pot-luck dinner will be held 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the Trinity Lutheran Church fellowship hall with professors Schramm and Moon from Christ College, Irvine as hosts. The Couples Club also has planned a "fun day" at 3 p.m. before the pot-luck dinner.

The Rev. Maynard Saeger will speak on the topic, "God Gives Joy" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday. Wesley Shriver will be baptised. Wednesday evening Lent services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Pastor Saeger's topic for this week will be, "Jesus In The Trials."

Day care center

The Diamond Bar Congregational Church is investigating the possibility of establishing a day care center for the Diamond Bar and Walnut area in conjunction with its present nursery school program. All residents of Diamond Bar and Walnut who have an interest in such a program are invited to a meeting at the church 7:30 p.m. April 11. Letters and calls of support before the meeting date are encouraged, so the church might enlist aid in getting a good meeting turnout.

"A venture of this type would need broad community support to succeed," said Dr. Watson, pastor. "We must have an indication from the community that this is something it wants and needs."

For information contact the church, 2249 Morning Canyon Road, Diamond Bar, (714) 595-5764.

LV Brethren

"Fruits of the Spirit: Faithfulness" will be the theme for the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at the La Verne Church of the Brethren. The motion picture "The Brothers Karamazov" will be shown 7 p.m. Sunday in the church social hall during the final session of a three-part Lenten study series dealing with Fyodor Dostoevsky.

Christian Women

The Pomona Valley Christian Women's Club will meet noon Wednesday, March 23 at Griswold's restaurant in Claremont, according to President Phyllis White. A special feature, "Homes Beautiful," will introduce the theme for the day which is, "Spring Spruce Up."

All women of the Pomona Valley are invited to attend and should make reservations for the luncheon by calling (714) 593-1254 or (714) 987-3509 by noon Monday. Free child care will be provided for children through kindergarten age.

Christ Lutheran

"The Christian Aroma" will be the sermon topic of Dr. A. L. Plueger of Christ Lutheran Church, 5500 Francis Ave., Chino, at this Sunday's 8:15 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services. Coffee refreshments will follow both.

A Wednesday Lenten service will be held 7:30 p.m. The topic will be, "Noisy Gongs and Clanging Cymbals." Counter measures against being that kind of person will be suggested. The service will last 45 minutes. Nursery attendants are provided at all services.

Following the midweek service a filmstrip on "Visitation Evangelism" will be shown in the parish hall. A discussion will be led by John Pusztai of Chino.

Chuck Wagon Dinner

The Youth Fellowship of the United Methodist Church of La Verne will sponsor their annual Chuck Wagon

Dinner 5-7 p.m. Wednesday, March 23 at the church. Tickets are available at the church, 3205 D St., (714) 593-2013. Cost is $2.75 for adults, and $2 for children age 12 and under.

Upland Presbyterian

Cheryl Emrich, a senior at Upland High School, will share the pulpit with the Rev. Robert Flagg during morning worship Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of Upland. Miss Emrich will speak on the theme, "God's Generosity and Our Response to Hunger." She is a member of the church's "Project Buring Bush," a program with the School of Theology at Claremont which emphasizes global Christian concerns.

'Godspell'

The University of Redlands Chapel Players will present "Godspell" 11 a.m. March 27 in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church of Claremont. This musical is based on the Gospel of Matthew and the parables of Jesus. The public is invited to attend.
